All Future Alaskan Teachers!!!

These rural visits help to build understanding and promote knowledge of rural Alaska. All teacher-interns should take advantage of this invaluable opportunity.

-Matthew

This trip was a wonderful opportunity for me to learn about my own cultural identity. I discovered a new environment, a diverse group of people, and a way of living that will forever influence my global perspective.

St. George

St. Paul

Rural exchanges should be available for all Alaskan teachers; the experience of being immersed in another people's culture is a rewarding tool that will have an enduring effect on my skills as an educator.

-Heather

For education to be successful it must fulfill the needs of the community.

-Jenny

To find one's place in the world, a person must first grasp who they are. As a teacher of diverse students, I want to promote individual identity.

-Jenny

I learned to keep an open mind and "go with the flow." There is much to learn if we open our eyes and ears and close our mouths.
