

September 2008

Dear Conference Participants,

We would like to welcome you to the University of Alaska Anchorage for your 4th International Project Management Conference. UAA's Engineering, Science and Project Management Department (ESPM), chaired by Professor Jang Ra, is committed to making this a first-class conference that will provide a comprehensive and productive exchange of ideas.

We are privileged to host this prestigious event which brings together Project Management Industry practitioners, academicians and government officials from around the world to talk about how we can develop better project management techniques to keep pace with our ever-changing global landscape.

Thank you for partnering with the University of Alaska Anchorage to provide a forum for this important exchange of ideas. As home to one of only 15 accredited graduate Project Management programs in the world, we look forward to this important opportunity to discuss practices and plans for the future.

Sincerely,

Fran Ulmer
Chancellor
