

UAA BOOKSTORE!

Cool Items to Purchase . . .

- A recent addition to the bookstore is the new “green” clothing line from Under Armour. This is the first clothing line from Under Armour in which clothing is made from recycled materials.
- The Bookstore also offers a variety of novelty items such as Elephant Poo Poo Paper, bracelets to support relief efforts in Darfur and trendy reusable bags from Envirosax.

Elephant PooPoo Paper

- Another item available every year for students graduating are the cap and gowns, which are made from recycled water bottles.

Sustainable Efforts . . .

- All of the items purchased from the bookstore were produced in factories that were monitored by the Fair Labor Association.

- Bring your own empty bag into the bookstore to reduce plastic waste.
- The bookstore provides plastic bags that are made from recycled film. These bags are recyclable! The bookstore has a bin located in the front of the store for students to drop off their used bags to be recycled.

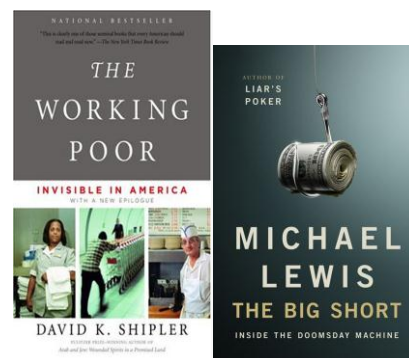

Envirosax from Enviros

- Textbook Buy Back! This program encourages students to trade in their used textbooks for cash. The program cuts down on costs for the bookstore, which lowers textbook costs for students and decreases the amount of books shipped to the state.
- For those textbooks that are out of date students can donate them and the books are sent to pulp mills to then be recycled.

Special Events and Books of the Year . . .

- Rachel Epstein, the Bookstore’s Special Events Coordinator, is working hard to make sure sustainability plays a central role in the event line up for the Bookstore.
- She is hard at work developing events in conjunction with this year’s Books of the Year- The Working Poor by David K. Shipler and The Big Short by Michael Lewis.

Books of the Year

Office of Sustainability