RE: History Department Policy on AP Credits in History

Following the visit of Cathy Brigham of the AP program last fall, the faculty of the Department of History has reviewed the following Advanced Placement exams. In light of College Board revision of the exams to a more outcomes based format we propose to change the qualifying score to a three (it is currently pegged at four).

As a transition plan, current students who earned a score of 3 on the exam and who do not have duplicate credit on their UAA transcript may request that the UAA equivalent be applied.

I am also requesting that the list of courses covered by the exams be expanded. Currently the European History exam only covers HIST A102, the World History exam covers HIST A101, and the U.S. History exam only counts towards history A131. In future (and in conformity with UAF as regards the Western Civ. and U.S. History sequences) the exams should count as follows.

AP Exam	Score	UAA Course	UAA Credits
European History	3-5	HIST A101 Western Civilization I HIST A102 Western Civilization II	6
World History	3-5	HIST A101 Western Civilization I	3
United States History	3-5	HISTA131 History of United States I HIST A132 History of United States II	6

Please let me know if there is anything further you require of me to initiate this change.

Thank you for your time and consideration.
