MEMORANDUM

TO: Dave Dau, ACCFT
Carl Shepro, United Academics

Dan Johnson, Provost UAA

FROM: Alex McNeill
Dean, College of Health, Education and Social Welfare

SUBJECT: Peer Review Committee for CHESW

DATE: October 6, 1998

On Friday, September 25, 1998, as a temporary solution to permit us to proceed with faculty evaluation, representatives from the UAA Faculty Senate, union officials and university administrators agreed that peer review committees shall "be established according to the process in place for the 1997 - 98 academic year." Effectively, this agreement means that, for one year only, both ACCFT and United Academics' faculty may be evaluated by peer committees comprised of faculty from both unions. The recommendation resolves issues for some colleges at UAA. However, it creates a major dilemma for CHESW. We are a new college. The faculties in Social Work, Justice and Human Services had no process in place for 1997 - 98. Further, these units were not permitted to develop a process during the period that the contract was being negotiated.

Over two weeks ago, in accordance with Article 9.25 of the United Academics' contract, lengthy discussions took place among United Academics' faculties in CHESW regarding the creation of a single, representative peer review committee. While concerns were raised during these discussions, there was unanimous support for constituting a college-wide, peer review committee, at least on a trial basis. A vote on this structure was scheduled for this week. However, as a result of the September 25, 1998 agreement, our task will be to successfully implement a peer review committee that fairly represents the interests of faculties represented by United Academics and the ACCFT.

The committee structure recommended by the United Academics' faculty was as follows:

Annually, the CHESW college wide peer review committee be constituted by electing one (1) full professor from each of Education, Justice, Nursing, and Social Work. In addition, two (2) tenured faculty elected from each of Education, Justice, Nursing and Social Work to serve in review only when a member of their profession/discipline is under review. Thus, the review committee for a faculty member would be comprised of six (6) tenured faculty, four (4) of whom would be at the rank of full professor.

The following is a suggested adaptation of the above recommendation to represent the uniqueness of the ACCFT workload and to provide for a fair and equitable review of ACCFT faculty during the peer review process. There are ten faculty represented by ACCFT; they are housed in the Department of Human Services, the Justice Center, and the School of Nursing.

Proposal

FOR THE 1998 - 99 ACADEMIC YEAR ONLY, the CHESW college wide peer review committee be constituted by electing one (1) full professor from each of Education, Justice, Nursing, and Social Work from those faculty represented by United Academics; and, one (1) full professor from that group of faculty represented by the ACCFT. In addition, two (2) tenured faculty be elected from each of Education, Justice, Nursing and Social Work from those faculty represented by United Academics; and, two tenured faculty elected from the group of faculty represented by the ACCFT.

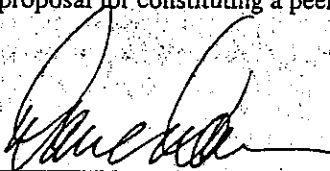

The five (5) full professors form the nucleus of the college wide peer review committee. The two additional tenured faculty from a discipline, professional field, or ACCFT unit would sit with the nucleus to form a committee of seven (7) for the purpose of review of candidates from their associated discipline, professional field, or bargaining unit. Thus, the review committee for any faculty member would be comprised of seven (7) tenured faculty, five (5) of whom would be at the rank of full professor, three of whom would be from the professional field or discipline, or bargaining unit in the case of a faculty member who is represented by ACCFT.

The distribution of CHESW faculty among the disciplines/professional fields and unions will always produce a committee with a majority representation from the United Academics' union when constituted as described above. In order to provide for parity in the review process and representation of the discipline/professional field, or bargaining unit for ACCFT faculty, voting must be restricted to five (5) of the elected representatives, three of whom must be from the professional field/discipline or bargaining unit in the case of an ACCFT member. Designating the voting membership in this way always results in a majority from the discipline/professional field or ACCFT bargaining unit. The voting members shall be identified by the peer review committee prior to conducting the review process for each individual under review.

NOTE: This committee will be charged to apply those standards already approved for the discipline/professional field and on record in the Office of Academic Affairs.

Since this proposal represents a deviation from the agreement reached September 25, 1998 by representatives from the UAA Faculty Senate, union officials and university administrators, I request your approval to adopt this proposal for constituting a peer review committee for faculty in CHESW.

INTRODUCTION

This document is to be used with the UAA and Board of Regents policies. If there is a conflict between the CCVE document and the policies, then the policies will prevail.

Current UAA Policy requires Schools and Colleges to detail Procedures and Guidelines for the Faculty Review Process as it relates to Promotion and Tenure. This document has been prepared by a special Task Force representing vocational faculty within the University of Alaska Anchorage, College of Career and Vocational Education. These Procedures and Guidelines are designed to provide working definitions, as well as elaboration and clarity, to the UAA Policies and Procedures Relating to Appointment, Review, Promotion and Tenure. This document does not supersede UAA Policies in anyway and, in fact, the Procedures and Guidelines are consistent with the current UAA policies as well as Board of Regents policies.

PHILOSOPHY AND PURPOSE OF FACULTY REVIEW

Mission statements of the University of Alaska Anchorage and the College of Career and Vocational Education inherently suggest the development of a constructive faculty review process. This process designates clear criteria for faculty professional development relative to University recognition of retention, tenure, and promotion.

Faculty are annually reviewed for particular participation in the development, dissemination, and application of knowledge and skills by demonstrating quality instruction, provision of quality programs, and active participation in service to the college and community.

The review procedures were developed with the basic assumption of trust that all eligible faculty will be tenured and promoted when requirements for such advancement have been satisfied.

The review process is intended for each faculty to present for review their particular accomplishments when applying for tenure or promotion. Data required for such a review may also be submitted by individual faculty, if necessary, when one is considered for salary advancement.

THE REVIEW PROCESS

GUIDELINES FOR EVALUATING TEACHING, SERVICE, RESEARCH, AND CREATIVE ACTIVITY

Teaching, service and research/creative activities of the faculty members being considered under these processes cover a wide range of workload assignments and responsibilities often designed to meet the specific needs of the particular discipline, program and/or campus. In arriving at judgments about the quality of teaching, service, and research/creative activities of these faculty members, evaluators are encouraged to review evidence from varied sources. The most reliable and valid indicators of effectiveness may vary with the nature of the individual's assignment.

The candidate must demonstrate through the promotion file that each component of the workload meets the relevant specified criteria for the appropriate rank ("potential for success", "successful", or "exemplary"). If so, the recommendation shall be to promote. If the recommendation is against promotion the reviewers shall state objectively how the candidate fails to meet the criteria.

REVIEW OF TEACHING ACTIVITIES

Teaching includes instruction both in and out of the classroom, on and off campus, face-to-face and/or distance delivery. The components of teaching may include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Formal classroom teaching. This includes campus and off-campus courses for which University credit is given and the number of student contact hours is defined.
- Individualized instruction. An example is an independent study course.
- Non-credit courses offered through the University that are part of the normal workload.
- Training or other seminars that are part of the normal workload.
- Student advising of currently enrolled students as to courses scheduling and matriculation.
- Program direction of graduate degree candidates; service on thesis committees.
- Distance delivery and course/curriculum.
- Program and curriculum development.
- Course development and revision.
- Instructional materials development, including laboratory manuals and media presentations.
- Other teaching experiences such as short courses offered by the computer center or guest lectures.
- Supervision of student teaching, practicums, internships, or externships.
- Preparation of program review, self-study report, or other accreditation documents.
- Non-traditional teaching activity – distance delivery and course/curriculum development.
- Use of technology in the classroom – Computer Based Instruction, Computer Aided Instruction, Multimedia, Video, CD Rom, Laser Disk, or networks.

REVIEW OF SERVICE ACTIVITIES

It is assumed that the level of service will vary among faculty but each member will make at least a minimum contribution in this area and should work with their supervisor in defining the level and mix of service. Service may include the following but is not limited to:

UNIVERSITY SERVICE

Service to the university can occur at many different levels. The following list is not exhaustive nor is it expected that faculty will serve at all levels. University service includes:

Department

- Provides advising to students in both academic and occupational areas.
- Furnishes program support, program development.
- Coordinates program advisory committees.
- Maintains and repairs laboratory equipment.
- Supervises and furnishes support of laboratories.
- Supervises adjunct faculty and student aides.
- Mentors other faculty.

College

- Serves on a college committee.
- Provides leadership on a college committee.
- Serves on Dean's council.
- Provides technical assistance to other college departments.
- Acts as liaison to the community or industry.

Campus

- Serves on a campus wide committee.
- Provides leadership on a campus wide committee.
- Provides technical assistance to other schools and colleges.

PROFESSIONAL SERVICE

Compensated Professional Service

Professional activity and consulting service is composed of compensated professional activity or consulting by a faculty member. Consulting service should be listed separately from professional community service as described below.

Uncompensated Professional Service

Service to one's profession relates to or contributions in organized activities of the faculty member's discipline. This includes membership, leadership, and participation in professional societies, associations, conferences, and meetings.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Professional Community Service

Professional community service is a contribution made by a faculty member which requires competence and skill in their profession. General areas of professional service include: technical assistance, evaluation, non-research consulting, public exhibition, professional advice and support to the public, organizational leadership due specifically to one's professional skills and background, and other activities which demonstrate the professional skills and competence of the faculty member.

General Community Service

General community service is a faculty member's general community activities which demonstrate a personal commitment to the community. This may include activity or leadership in organized or ad hoc community service.

REVIEW OR RESEARCH/CREATIVE ACTIVITIES

Certain faculty members may permanently be assigned tripartite workloads that will entail projects in creative activities or research. Expectations about the extent and quality of these activities will vary for faculty members according to their rank, contractual agreement, and resources available. There is an extremely diverse range of research/creative products. Below are examples of activities and products which constitute valid research/creative activity. The quality of creative products will be given careful consideration and may result in a particular research/creative activity receiving more or less recognition than other works.

DEFINITION OF APPROPRIATE RESEARCH/CREATIVE ACTIVITY

The nature of research/creative activities and the standards for evaluating their quality must combine the traditions and interests of specific disciplines with more general concerns of the institution as a whole. It is important that the creative activities for different disciplines be defined and evaluated in a manner that faculty members, within and outside the discipline, perceive as generally fair and reasonable. Faculty members within the discipline should understand which creative activities are appropriate for meeting their contractual obligations and advancing toward tenure and promotion, and they should know the general way in which the quality of these activities will be judged. Faculty members outside the discipline should generally view these standards as neither too lenient nor too harsh. Unless explicit statements governing the nature of creative activities have been adopted and approved by the academic unit, and the administrative process. The standards below will guide the review process.

Examples:

BASIC RESEARCH

Methodical studies and activities carried out with the primary intent and immediate consequence of augmenting and developing knowledge in any field. The results of basic research will contribute to theory and understanding and to the revision of knowledge and its accumulation. Out of all of this, in turn, may flow various procedures, formulae for action, devices, instruments, and other outcomes.

APPLIED RESEARCH

Methodical studies and activities which augment and develop knowledge but are carried on with the primary intent or immediate consequence of practical application.

DEVELOPMENT

Methodical activities and studies that augment and develop knowledge and the systematic use of knowledge, carried on with the primary intent and/or immediate consequence of designing and producing useful prototypes. The routine reapplication of procedures and formulae already worked out; the repetition of tests; the reproduction of existing designs and products; and the like, are all excluded from consideration as creative activities.

ACTIVITIES WHICH SHOULD BE REPORTED

Faculty members will include in their activity report information summarizing their research/creative activities over the review period and their research/creative productivity in terms of professional contributions during this time:

- Research activities not presently reflected in publications, presentations, or papers.
- Research products completed but not reported.
- Research products in progress.
- Research proposals in preparation.
- Reviews of research proposals for funding agencies.
- Reviews technical report written in fulfillment of the provisions of research related grants and contracts.
- Prepares and submits research proposals to funding organizations.
- Presents papers, presentations, or demonstrations at regional and national conferences.
- Reports ongoing or completed studies through presentations or poster sessions.
- Implements pilot or more advanced studies independently or in collaboration with colleagues.
- Participates in activities to develop research competencies.
- Consultation on research is sought by faculty members.
- Mentors other faculty.

- Development of Non-traditional teaching activity – distance delivery and course/curriculum development.
- Development of technological delivery methods of education – Computer Based instruction, Computer Aided Instruction, Multimedia, Video, CD Rom, Laser Disk, or networks.

RESEARCH/CREATIVE PRODUCTS

There exists a continuum of research/creative products ranging from papers presented at local meetings to publication of a major book. All types of research/creative productivity are to be valued, but some types will receive greater recognition than others.

Listed below are examples of research/creative productivity. Some products may vary greatly in the weight they receive depending on their scope. For example, in some disciplines the dollar value of a funded grant proposal may be a factor in the evaluation of the proposal. The quality of research/creative products will be given careful consideration and may result in a particular research/creative product receiving more or less recognition than indicated by the following list. All review stages are to avoid a mechanical application of the list below.

- Books (authored or edited)
- Refereed Monographs
- Funded Research proposals
- Refereed journal Articles
- Articles in Edited Books
- Refereed proceedings
- Laboratory Manuals and Instructional materials for Publication
- Non-Refereed journal Articles
- Reviews of Articles for Publication or Conference Presentation
- Reviews of Computer Software or hardware
- Journal Comments and Notes
- Non-Refereed proceedings
- Cases Published
- Research Reports
- Paper Presented at a Professional Meeting
- Annotated Bibliography
- Translations, Collections, Bulletins, Synopses, Abstracts, Books of Readings, Manuals, Journal Comments and Notes
- Newspaper Editorials, Articles
- Grant proposals
- Receipt of extramural funding
- Final report for a grant
- Published a paper in ERIC
- Student theses, investigative project or other research
- Computer programs
- Computer Based Instruction, Computer Aided Instruction, Multimedia, Video, CD Rom, Laser Disk, or networks.

PREPARING THE ACTIVITY REPORT RESEARCH/CREATIVE SECTION:

Following the guidelines summarized in this text, research/creative activities and products should be concisely described. In addition to simply listing research/creative activities and products, the faculty member should include all honors and/or special recognition received from the professional community over the review period. A very brief statement (one or two short paragraphs) should be given relating the individual's research/creative contributions to the goals and objectives of their professional development and those of their department or Campus/College as a whole.

APPOINTMENT TO TENURE

The primary purpose of tenure is to assure the academic community of an environment that will nurture academic freedom by providing employment security to faculty members and faculty continuity to the university. Tenure gives the full-time faculty member freedom to teach, to research, or to engage in public service, but it does not release him or her from responsibility to maintain high standards of professional performance or conduct.

To be eligible for tenure, a faculty member must present evidence of successful teaching and service as specified in the applicant's workload agreements or as reflected in the applicant's activity reports.

A faculty member may request an evaluation for award of tenure during any year of service. However, a faculty member must be reviewed for tenure in accordance with the following:

1. Initial appointment to full professor. Faculty initially appointed to the rank of full professor will be awarded tenure at the time of appointment.
2. Initial appointment to associate professor. Initial appointment to the rank of associate professor may be made with or without tenure. Faculty receiving such appointment without tenure must be reviewed for tenure no later than the fourth (4th) consecutive year of service. Appointments to associate professor may continue beyond the fifth (5th) year only with tenure.
3. Promotion to associate professor. Non-tenured faculty undergoing review for promotion to associate professor must also be reviewed for tenure. Promotion to associate professor cannot be made without prior or simultaneous award of tenure.
4. Initial appointment to assistant professor. All non-tenured faculty appointed at the rank of assistant professor must be reviewed for tenure no later than the seventh (7th) consecutive year of service.
5. Initial appointment to instructor. Tenure may be awarded to faculty holding the rank of instructor. Time in the rank of instructor shall count toward tenure.
6. Change in bipartite or tripartite workload category prior to tenure. Faculty who desire to change the designated bipartite or tripartite workload category before being awarded tenure are required to meet the criteria for initial appointment (see Appendix A) to the rank in the workload category to which they wish to change.
7. Change in bipartite or tripartite workload responsibility after tenure. Tenure, once granted, shall not be affected by a change in bipartite or tripartite workload responsibility.
8. Denial of tenure. A faculty member may elect to stand for tenure under this process. In so doing, the candidate may withdraw at any step in the process prior to review by the Chancellor. If the decision of the Chancellor is to deny tenure, the faculty member shall be offered a terminal appointment.
