

University of Alaska Anchorage
Report on Institutional and Programmatic Accreditation
Report to the UA Board of Regents—September 2013

Institutional Accreditation at UAA (Regents Policy 10.02.070A)

The University of Alaska Anchorage has been accredited by the Northwest Commission on Colleges and Universities (NWCCU) since 1974. This accreditation includes the Anchorage campus, Kenai Peninsula College, Kodiak College, and Matanuska-Susitna College. Prince William Sound Community College is separately accredited by the NWCCU.

Institutional accreditation is regularly reviewed and reaffirmed by the NWCCU. This reaffirmation occurs through regular reports and site visits conducted by peer evaluators. In addition to these reports and visits, UAA also communicates regularly with the NWCCU about new programs and changes to institutional leaders and organizational structure.

Timeline

UAA's institutional accreditation was last reaffirmed in early 2012, as the first step in a new accreditation cycle that will run from 2011-2017. The next regular report and visit in this cycle will be in Fall 2014, and will focus on Resources and Capacity.

In 2012, the NWCCU approved a substantive change to include the Joint Ph.D. degree in Clinical-Community Psychology (a joint program with the University of Alaska Fairbanks) in the university's accreditation. The Commission will take action on the university's candidacy status in January 2014 based on an ad hoc self-evaluation report and site visit scheduled in Fall 2013.

Program Accreditation at UAA (Regents Policy 10.02.070B)

More than 60 UAA degree and certificate programs hold accreditation or approval by external agencies. Many of these programs are in disciplines with professional certification or registration requirements, such as health programs, engineering, and education. The figure below shows the relative distribution of accredited programs in the institution's academic units. The table at the end of this report provides a complete list of programs with special approval or accreditation.

Proposals to seek new program accreditation are evaluated based on criteria including the agency, eligibility requirements, benefits to the institution and students, and available resources and capacity to maintain ongoing accreditation. The Office of Academic Affairs assists programs in preparing self-studies and other accreditation communication to external agencies.

UA Accreditation Definitions & Format

Institutional Accreditation: The status of public recognition that a recognized accrediting agency grants to an institution or educational program that meets its qualifying requirements and accreditation criteria. The process involves initial and periodic self-evaluation followed by an evaluation by peers.

Types of Accreditation: Each type of accreditation is awarded by a non-governmental agency recognized by the Secretary of the U.S. Department of Education. The essential purpose of the accreditation agency is to provide a professional judgment regarding the quality of the educational institution or program offered and to encourage continual institutional improvement.

Regional: Accreditation of an institution as a whole for institutions within a prescribed geographic region of the United States.

National: Accreditation of an institution as a whole for institutions that are single purpose in nature, such as business or information technology institutes, or that have a clear thematic mission, such as faith-based institutions or liberal arts colleges.

Program/Specialized: Accreditation of a unit or educational program within an institution with regard to program-specific standards. The unit may be a school, department, program, or curriculum.
