Report on Institutional and Programmatic Accreditation
Report to the UA Board of Regents – July 25, 2023

Institutional Accreditation at UAA (Regents Policy 10.02.070A)

NWCCU Accreditation Cycle: Institutional accreditation is regularly reviewed and reaffirmed by the NWCCU. This occurs through regular reports and site visits on a seven-year cycle. In addition to these reports and visits, the institution also communicates with the NWCCU about new and discontinued programs and changes to institutional leaders and organizational structure.

UAA Accreditation Status: The University of Alaska Anchorage has been accredited by the Northwest Commission on Colleges and Universities (NWCCU) since 1974. This single accreditation status applies to all UAA campuses, including Anchorage, Kenai Peninsula College, Kodiak College, Matanuska-Susitna College, and Prince William Sound College.

Current UAA Cycle: UAA's institutional accreditation was last reaffirmed in January 2019, based on a comprehensive Year Seven Self-Evaluation Report and site visit. UAA received 4 commendations and 2 recommendations. An Ad Hoc Report submitted in March 2020 fulfilled all recommendations. The reaffirmation in 2019 began a new accreditation cycle that runs through Fall 2025. The below outlines the completed and upcoming milestones in the current seven-year cycle.

Specialized Program Accreditation at UAA (Regents Policy 10.02.070B)

Sixty-one UAA degrees and certificates hold specialized program accreditation by external agencies. Many of these programs lead to professional certification or registration, such as in health or engineering. The figure below shows the relative distribution of programs with specialized program accreditation in the institution's academic units. Accredited programs, including those delivered at community campuses, are located in the academic colleges. The table that follows provides a complete list of programs with specialized program accreditation.

Proposals to seek new specialized program accreditation are evaluated based on criteria including the agency, eligibility requirements, benefits to the institution and students, and available resources and capacity to maintain ongoing accreditation. The Office of Academic Affairs partners with the deans to coordinate and monitor specialized program accreditation efforts.

The chart includes academic programs which have received candidacy or accreditation from an external agency. It does not include programs still developing candidacy materials or awaiting approval for candidacy. It also does not include collaborative programs where the partner institution holds the accreditation (such as the WWAMI School of Medical Education).

University of Alaska Anchorage Specialized Program Accreditation Status 2023

The following programs have accreditation from agencies external to UAA. The “Status” column may indicate where departments are in the process of obtaining initial accreditation, and other clarifying details.

Note that the different organizations conducting these reviews use varying terminology. A term such as “recommendation” might be a general suggestion for improvement for one agency, and for another agency, it indicates that there is a required correction in order to maintain specialized program accreditation. Some reviews use “weakness,” “deficiency,” or “citation” to indicate deficiencies in performance relative to an accreditation standard. In the table, the original language in the review is used.
