Provost Runge

- Return to campus, fall updates
 - Anchorage is now in “high alert” in regards to COVID, a possible mask mandate could be in our future
 - UAS announced they are going to require masks for now
 - Please help us reinforce our stance that we are not forcing Faculty to be on campus.
 - If Faculty are working & teaching 100% remotely, especially if working from out of state or outside the area, they will need to fill out the Telework agreement.
- Adjunct contract negotiations begin around September of 2021. UNAC was supposed to be at the same time, but the contract has now been extended until February 28, 2022.

Vice Provost Kalina

- JBER
 - o Meetings have been going great with Fort Rich and Elmendorf groups.

- o They want more courses going forward after Fall – GER's, sciences with labs, and COH focused
- o Please send names for Faculty that will be teaching sections on base to Deanne as soon as possible so she help get them base access.
- Each college needs to put together a one-three pager of what you would like Military personnel to know about your programs and what's available.
- Please connect with your advising team and find one person who the personnel on base can share as a direct contact with the perspective students to help them be successful.

Vice Provost Claudia Lampman

- September 8th and 9th – Seawolf mentor recruitment event for all three programs! 11-1:00 outside of Rasmuson if we can be outside. Students can fill out a questionnaire on the spot and they can win some GCI prizes.
- There will be an event in October as well connected to homecoming with alumni speakers about their mentorship experiences.
- “Drop in days” where students can get advised or registering help over the next month. Proposal will be shared via email in the next few days.
- Advisors in college's are pretty maxed out right now. Show them some support please!

Project reminder - Please update the peer coordinator list if you have not already.
