

The UAA School of Education annually conducts satisfaction surveys. The surveys provide faculty with data addressing the satisfaction of program completers and their employers with the relevance and effectiveness of their preparation.

Employer satisfaction surveys were administered in the Spring of 2019, 2020, and 2021 seeking stakeholder feedback on advanced-level program completers from 2018, 2019, and 2020, respectively. The survey administration with performed in collaboration with the Center of Alaska Education Policy Research, an independent research unit of the Institute of Social and Economic Research.

The Advanced Licensure program faculty have developed new Alumni/Employer Survey tools to be piloted with AY 2020-2021 completers in Fall 2023.

Question: To what extent do you agree or disagree that the educator does the following	% Agree
	2018	2019	2020
	n=28	n=10	n=17
Collaborate with professional colleagues and/or community leaders (e.g., Alaska Native Elders, village councils, and leaders within culturally and linguistically diverse communities) in community settings.	97%	100%	94%
Collaborate with culturally and linguistically diverse families to support students' academic development.	97%	100%	94%
Collaborate with culturally and linguistically diverse families to support students' social and emotional development.	97%	100%	94%
Critically analyze research.	97%	100%	94%
Examine critical questions through inquiry.	97%	100%	94%
Apply research-based practice to Alaska's educational context.	97%	100%	94%
Engage in self-reflection that builds dispositions required for success in the role they were prepared.	97%	100%	94%
Use technology to maximize student learning.	97%	100%	94%
Practice ethical use of technology.	97%	100%	94%
Use technology for professional development.	97%	100%	94%
Overall, do you agree that you are satisfied with the preparation of your teachers/administrators who are UAA graduates?	97%	100%	94%