Internship Placement
All program courses must be completed before entering into the internship courses. All M.Ed. and Graduate Certificate candidates are responsible for applying for practicum/internship placement by the published deadlines. DO NOT contact any teacher, school or organization regarding any placement. Candidates cannot request a school where a spouse, significant other, child or relative attends or works.

Praxis II Exam
Students seeking an initial certification in Special Education must take the Praxis II Level Content Area. The specific Praxis II test number and passing scores can be located on the State of Alaska Department of Education & Early Development (DEED) website at Alaska Teacher Certification Content Area Exams.

Degree Works
Candidates can track their progress towards degree completion, track petitions and advising notes by using DegreeWorks through UAOnline Services.

Institutional Recommendation
The State of Alaska Department of Education & Early Childhood Development (EED) requires approved Alaska Studies and Multicultural/Cross-Cultural Communications course work that may or may not be a part of your graduate program. See your program policies in your UAA catalog year and the EED website for more information (http://www.eed.state.ak.us). Candidates will only receive a State-Approved Program Verification by completing their program of study. Applying for graduation and applying for a Program Verification from UAA are the responsibility of the student.

Communications via E-mail
The UA Student Gmail account is the university’s preferred method of contacting candidates. Candidates can set their UA Student Gmail account so that email is forwarded to another account. It is the candidate’s responsibility to forward their UA Student Gmail account to another e-mail.

Program Delivery
Since the majority of graduate course work includes distance delivery by Blackboard and Blackboard Collaborate (https://classes.uaa.alaska.edu), candidates will need access to the Internet and a headset with microphone. Candidates must have the technological knowledge and skills to engage in distance learning.

Electronic Portfolios
Digication and VIA are ePortfolio software programs that allow users to present their work to various audiences. Students can share their ePortfolios to small groups for assessment purposes, either for course assignment, course learning objectives, program outcomes, or accreditation. Students can document learning artifacts, as well as a reflection on what they know and how they know it. All Masters and Graduate Certificate students are expected to build on ePortfolio to store and share their evidence of learning through the program. The eWolf program provides students a chance to create and maintain their digital Wolf identity through Digication. For more information, visit eWolf: ePortfolios at UAA. Information on the use of VIA will be provided after admission to the program.

My signature indicates that I read the above information, and I understand I must provide the required documents to be considered for admission into the Educational Leadership program. I also understand I am responsible for applying to my internship and UAA Graduation by UAA’s published dates.

Revised January 2020
School of Education Mission: We prepare educators and support the lifelong learning of professionals to embrace diversity and to be intellectually and ethically strong, resilient, and passionate in their work with Alaska’s learners, families, and communities. Intellectual vitality, collaborative spirit, inclusiveness and equity, and leadership are the core values we promote.

School of Education Graduate Studies Mission: We prepare scholarly practitioners grounded in purpose and research to address complex problems of practice in the context of Alaska’s Indigenous and culturally and linguistically diverse setting.

Graduate Studies faculty and students enact the School of Education’s core values and Graduate Studies’ mission in the following ways.

● Collaborative Spirit
  ○ Collaborating with key partners (e.g., Alaska Natives; school-based teachers and administrators; community-based leaders and Elders).

● Intellectual Vitality
  ○ Conducting scholarship in teaching and research that address complex problems of practice relevant to Alaska’s context.
  ○ Implementing interdisciplinary practices indicative of a holistic, integral approach to graduate studies.
  ○ Framing and examining critical questions through inquiry/research.

● Leadership
  ○ Engaging in self-reflection.
  ○ Listening.

● Inclusiveness and Equity
  ○ Examining, analyzing, evaluating, and commenting on education policies and practices.
  ○ Recognizing and respecting multiple perspectives and worldviews.

Purpose: This writing assessment is one component of the SOE Graduate Studies admissions application process. It is used in making admission decisions to graduate programs in educational leadership, language education, and special education. Transcripts, references, resumes, and other documents, along with this writing assessment, are part of a holistic review that reveals the applicant’s self-motivation, competence, dispositions, and potential as a graduate student in the chosen field of study.

Directions to Applicants: Review and reflect on the School of Education/Graduate Studies missions presented above. Focusing on the ways the SOE faculty and students enact the core values and mission, choose three key points that connect to your current practice. Craft a 750-1000 word essay that addresses a) how those key points are reflected in your current practice, b) your experiences in matters pertaining to social justice and equity, and c) your motivation for applying to your desired program including how it will benefit you, students, families and communities. Your essay will be evaluated using the following rubric. Please review the rubric before beginning your writing process. A minimum rubric score average of 2 is expected.
